

CREDO.

by EDWARD ELGAR (1877)

Edited by John Morrison (2019)

The source is a manuscript British Museum Add. MS 49973 B. Folios 29-35, probably donated by Elgar's daughter Mrs. Carice Elgar Blake. It was brought to my attention in 1979 by the late Geoffrey Hodgkins, Elgar scholar and author, and I am grateful for his kind interest and suggestions.

Elgar started his Credo in E minor in 1872, the year he left school, but composed most of it in 1877, when he became assistant organist at St George's Church, Worcester, where his father was organist. His sister Lucy noted that he played the organ for Mass for the first time on 14 July 1872 – when he was just 15.

The manuscript is the only known version, but there is evidence that the composer returned to it at least twice, as some of the accompaniment is in pencil, and some of that erased. It was never published. It was one among a dozen short religious works the young Elgar composed, including another Credo fitted to themes from Beethoven's symphonies. This was before the mature examples of the genre including the Coronation Offertory O hearken Thou for the Coronation of King George V in 1911, the Psalms Great is the Lord, Give Unto the Lord and the Te Deum and Benedictus.

In this Credo, after a peaceful unassuming start firmly rooted in its home key, we find drama built up from unexpected cadences, abrupt key changes, magnificent chordal successions and dynamic contrasts which lift the work out of the ordinary. The direct simplicity of the Latin text was always more to Elgar's liking than the obscure words of hymns which besides could never quite fit their tune from one verse to another.

Elgar's capitalisation and punctuation have been altered to agree with the current Nicene Creed. His Latin has here and there been corrected. Jesum is preferred to Iesum, similarly cujus and judicare. Digraphs have been separated: e.g. cæli changed to caeli.

All large notes are Elgar's, and very few have been changed: small notes and anything in square brackets [] are editorial suggestions. Certain passages where no accompaniment is indicated may obviously and effectively be sung without accompaniment, e.g. bars 15-16. The cadence at bar 18, if intended, is intriguing if left exactly as written – C major preferred to E minor. A suggestion of accompanying quavers has been added in bars 118-124. The sudden key change and diminuendo at bar 127 after the words erit finis seems to make no sense unless there is a pause at the end of bar 126, which I have added, indicated with a comma, and this emphasises a dramatic moment. It is contentious how the syllables of the final 'A-men' should be split, a point which should be clarified by the choir leader.

In the organ part there is no separate stave for the pedal, and few indications of stops: note the Tromba ordered at bar 111. There are few dynamics indicated, and these have been added where necessary to match those with the voice parts. There are few slurs and none have been added.

Dedicated to the memory of my great-grandfather, Weymouth-born Harry Drew (1851-1895), who at the time the Credo was composed was a teacher at S. Thomas' College, Colombo, and organist at the little Colombo Cathedral, where he also composed music for the church services. He worked there between 1873 and 1882.

CREDO.

CREDO in unum Deum,
Patrem omnipotentem,
factorem cæli et terræ,
visibílium ómnium et invisibílium.

Et in unum Dóminum, Iesum Christum, Fílium Dei unigénitum,
et ex Patre natum ante ómnia sæcula.

Deum de Deo, lumen de lumine, Deum verum de Deo vero, génitum, non factum, consubstantiálem Patri:
per quem ómnia facta sunt.

Qui propter nos hómines et propter nostram salutem
descéndit de cælis.

Et incarnátus est de Spíritu Sancto
ex María Vírgine, et homo factus est.

Crucifíxus étiam pro nobis sub Póntio Piláto;
passus et sepúltus est,
et resurréxit tértia die, secúndum Scriptúras,
et ascéndit in cælum, sedet ad dexteram Patris.

Et íterum ventúrus est cum glória,
iudicáre vivos et mórtuos,
cuius regni non erit finis.

Et in Spíritum Sanctum, Dóminum et vivificántem:
qui ex Patre Filióque procedit.

Qui cum Patre et Fílio simul adorátur et conglorificátur:
qui locútus est per prophétas.

Et unam, sanctam, cathólicam et apostólicam Ecclésiám.

Confíteor unum baptísma in remissionem peccatórum.

Et expécto resurrectionem mortuórum,
et vitam ventúri sæculi.

Amen.
